

Figure 164 The Mars Pathfinder landing site mapped by reprojecting the surface panorama, using the HiRISE image for geometric control, with informal names for rocks and other features.

The large white circles indicate dark marks in the soil made by the airbags during landing. The lander bounced from east to west, rolled over the rocky area north of the Rock Garden (large rocks between Flat Top and Chimp) and settled in a low point northeast of the Rock Garden.